

1832 Census of [Free] Negroes -- Calvert County, Maryland

Transcript of the "1832 Census of Negroes" for Calvert County. This was a census of freed persons of color living in Maryland. The purpose of this census was to find volunteers for removal of freed persons of color to Liberia in Africa by the Maryland Colonization Society. The efforts of the society were greatly encouraged and given an urgent status after Nat Turner's Rebellion of 1831 in nearby Virginia. The census was conducted by sheriffs, and provided for by legislation. It was not stored with any state papers of Maryland, and was discovered within the papers of the Maryland Colonization Society at the Maryland Historical Society, with the Maryland State Archives then microfilming the papers of the society and making it available on their website. Only Somerset County was transcribed in a series of originals at the Maryland State Archives, as it was randomly inserted into a Somerset County deed register.

There was not a standard format for this census. As you can see, the Calvert County sheriff also included a column for value of personal property. Sometimes the Census was in near alphabetical order, though in Calvert County, it looks like it follows an order that is similar to that of a census taker, and was not alphabetized. Unfortunately, the males were listed separately than the females. It is also interesting to note that not a single person volunteered for removal to Liberia Africa.

Trascribed by Michael Vass, as part of the final project for MUST 390 , Introduction to Archives and Information Science, St. Mary's College of Maryland

Transcription corrected and annotated by Kent Randell, College Archivist, St. Mary's College of Maryland. Males are listed alongside females, with matching surnames being paired together and given a blue background. This was not possible for a section in the middle of the Census, where surnames were common and repeating. Numbers match those of the Census takers, and record skips and duplicates.
